These are screen shots of the 2/334 BN (IT) AKO CAC Resource Portal as mentioned in the Initial Design Project. I could not fit entire portal area into one screenshot, so I had to take three separate shots. If you will notice all of the components listed in the Initial Design Project have a place holder and will eventually become a part of a usable and accessible web-interface that Soldiers will use to assist them in the process of installing, configuring and utilizing the United States Army's Common Access Card (CAC) that is currently being fielded and used to sign electronic documents sent via Army Knowledge Online (AKO) My Forms.

I realize that it may be difficult to understand what AKO is as you have describe, however it is nothing more than a very large or super large database where all branches of the Military can log-in and collaborate. In my case as it relates to this project, I am using it as a hosting service and a domain as well as it allows me the ability to create web-based content such as what I described in my design project in order to enhance training and communication among Soldiers and units across the Army in my case.

For this checkpoint, I have basically set-up the shell or module placeholder on AKO that house all of the units of instructions that will be upload for Soldier access once completed. In addition, I addressed and attempted to clarify the questions from the Initial Design Project Checkpoint.
