

SIUE's Center for Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) Research, Education and Outreach invites the SIUE and extended communities to its Resource Center Open House:

11 a.m.-1 p.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 9

Vadalabene Center Room 1304

The STEM Resource Center is an important resource for Southern Illinois, offering materials and written resources to educators and families in the area, free of charge.

"Science and math topics are greatly improved with tools and demonstrations that can be prohibitively expensive or technical for everyone to have access," Resource Center Manager Colin Wilson said. "Through grants, donations and outreach programming, we are able to make exemplary education available to everyone."

Attendees will have the opportunity to interact with resource center items and watch exciting demonstrations. They can peruse new materials on display and participate in raffle drawings.

For more information, call 618-650-3065.