Springboard to Success

Now that students are admitted to SIUE, they may ask, "What's next?" At SIUE, all freshmen are required to participate in Springboard to Success. This is a pre-entry advisement program that allows students to register for classes, pick up their student ID card and e-mail address, and take care of any additional business in one visit. During the program, students will visit with current SIUE students, faculty, and staff as well as become more familiar with the University and its services. Parents also have the opportunity to participate in sessions covering topics on financial aid, paying tuition, student privacy rights and more. For details about Springboard to Success, please visit www.admissions.siue.edu/springboard.

TRANSFERmation Tuesday

TRANSFERmation Tuesday is a new program designed for newly admitted transfer students. This program provides an excellent opportunity for students to learn about the programs, services, and activities available at SIUE. Once students have registered for their classes, they may sign up for TRANSFERmation Tuesday. For more information about the program, please visit www.admissions.edu/transformation.

SIUE Mass Communications Department

The Mass Communications Department continues to be one of our top programs at SIUE with its state-of-the-art facilities, outstanding faculty, and phenomenal opportunities for internships. Our campus is only 25 minutes from downtown St. Louis — ranked the 22nd market in the United States. Students who choose to major in mass communications have four professional options they can pursue: print and electronic journalism, television-radio, media advertising, or corporate and instructional media. You can find our alums in positions at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, USA Today, Anheuser-Busch Companies and working on special projects for CBS. For more details about our program, please visit www.siue.edu/MASSCOMM.
