Newton’s Laws

1. A body in motion remains in a state of straight-line motion at the same speed unless acted on by an external force.

2. \[ \vec{F} = m\vec{a} \]

3. If a body exerts a force on another body, it is acted on by that body with an equal size force pointed in the opposite direction ("action-reaction").