SIUE is proud to support responsible use of forest resources.
As our mission and vision statements remind us, SIUE students are challenged to realize their full potential to positively impact and shape a changing world.”

Dr. Randall G. Pembrook, SIUE Chancellor

On the cover: Three undergraduate engineering students launched a weather balloon, which traveled 20 miles above Earth. An attached camera captured approximately 10,000 stunning aerial images featuring SIUE’s iconic ‘e’.
Welcome to this edition of the Chancellor’s Report. As you can see by the cover, SIUE has now gone beyond having just a global reach to making an impact that is out of this world! Our mission states that we are “shaping a changing world,” but limits are meant to be stretched and that is exactly this University’s forte.

As SIUE embarks on a reimagining of its Strategic Plan, we will be reaching for advanced goals for the coming years. Now that the University has been reclassified by Carnegie Classifications as a Doctoral/Professional institution, our sights are trained on all of the opportunities that affords. SIUE is proud to be among the Top 30 percent of universities in the United States in this class, according to Washington Monthly.

Two areas of great importance and continuing focus in the years ahead will be those of diversity appreciation and inclusion and community engagement. These are hallmarks of SIUE and will be at the forefront of our efforts in expanding and shaping our greater boundaries. The University has recently received the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity award for the sixth consecutive year and celebrated its second annual Diversity Day with comprehensive programming and dialogue. This invitation to participate in inclusive conversations is open not only to the campus community, but to regional audiences.

Additional community outreach is found in SIUE’s Successful Communities Collaborative. This program has realized astounding success in pairing University students and faculty with community leaders to solve local issues and concentrate on future planning. Examples of collaborative activities include: an awareness and educational campaign surrounding opioid abuse; development of a city-wide recycling program; public works improvements; and multiple city recreational enhancement projects. Student participation has skyrocketed from a total of 35 to 270 in just three years!

One of the many benefits of these types of engagement has been the amazing response of our alumni and donor friends. The support we have received, both financial and otherwise, has been a pivotal factor in our success. SIUE is committed to serving the greater good and we are incredibly grateful to have the backing of our community partners. Join us in boosting SIUE to the next stage!

SHAPING THE FUTURE IN PARTNERSHIP,

Randall G. Pembrook, PhD
SIUE Chancellor

SIUE presented an Honorary Degree during the 2019 Spring Commencement ceremonies

The Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters is bestowed upon individuals who have made a profound impact on SIUE, in line with its mission, vision and values. This year’s Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters recipient is former SIUE President Earl Lazerson. Dr. Lazerson dedicated 25 years of service to SIUE. He joined SIUE as a faculty member in 1969 and held several positions, including professor of mathematics, chair of the mathematics department, dean of social science and technology, and provost. He assumed the role of interim president in 1979 and was named president of SIUE in 1980.

During his nearly 14-year tenure as SIUE’s president—the title now referred to as chancellor—Lazerson made an indelible mark on the University. He was committed to making SIUE an engine for economic development throughout the region. He worked diligently to create the Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois as a regional chamber of commerce and the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority, which was established as a financial tool for job creation.

His long list of achievements includes:
• Emphasizing strong undergraduate classes taught by professors instead of graduate students
• Focusing on minority recruitment and retention efforts with a renewed commitment to the SIUE East St. Louis Center
• Initiating the annual Preview SIUE open house event for high school students and their families in 1979
• Consolidating various schools into what today is known as the College of Arts and Sciences
• Presiding over the construction of several major buildings, including the Vadalabene Center, the Student Fitness Center, the School of Dental Medicine dental clinic, the University’s first 500-student residence hall, and the Art and Design Building

In addition to receiving numerous awards and honors, President Lazerson takes great pride in having been recognized with SIUE’s Teaching Excellence Award. He recently donated his collection of more than 2,000 books comprised of mathematics materials to Lovejoy Library. He and his wife created the Ann and Earl Lazerson Endowment to support a Lazerson Lecture Series in the College of Arts and Sciences and a Dr. Earl Lazerson Mathematical Symposium in the Lovejoy Library.
SIUE Successful Communities Collaborative (SSCC)

Connecting Illinois communities with the dynamic resources of students and faculty of SIUE, this cross-disciplinary program supports one-year partnerships between the University and communities in Illinois.

Growing Together: SIUE and the City of Edwardsville

Students and city officials are working together to make the dynamic community, which is home to SIUE’s campus, an even better place to live, learn, work, and play.

Students studying sociology, geography, environmental sciences, philosophy, marketing, civil engineering, industrial engineering and kinesiology are working on three core projects:

• Earth Edwardsville: Promote natural conservation strategies and pro-environmental behaviors in the community
• Sports Complex: Develop a conceptual design and management strategy for an ice rink and teen center to be located near Edwardsville High School
• Parking Downtown: Gather community input to generate solutions to downtown parking issues, and create innovative ideas to make downtown Edwardsville more inviting to residents, visitors and businesses

Past collaborations in surrounding communities have included partnerships to address opioid abuse, recycling and sustainability, and analysis of city traffic patterns to optimize efficiencies.

The SIUE Experience

• Introduces students to the University and its values through small group activities and service projects held on the weekend prior to the beginning of fall semester
• Provides incoming students with opportunities for more than 2,000 volunteer service hours at community gardens, parks and nonprofit organizations
• Promotes the University’s commitment to community engagement and enhancement

Community Engagement

SIUE is committed to developing leaders who shape a changing world. The University engages in High Impact Community Engagement Practices and empowers students to apply their academic knowledge and skills in a way that makes a positive impact within communities.
