Media Studies at SIUE

This program is designed for students who wish to concentrate in:

- Professional media practice
- Media message design
- Media campaigns
- Media policy
- Marketing communications and management
- Media studies
- Media and politics
- Media influence
- Media ethics
- Media literacy
- Transnational media
- Media representation

These concentration areas reflect the expertise of the department's graduate faculty, which enables students to attain high levels of competency in message design and placement, theoretical application, and research design.

So students will be able to apply the degree to their professional and intellectual goals, this program stresses a foundation in:

- Mass communication theory
- Qualitative and quantitative research methods
- Design, production and application of media messages

This core focus of the curriculum is pivotal for what practitioners in the field might need, as well as what doctoral program selection committees look for when evaluating students. The three core areas of curriculum concentration combine to foster:

- Critical thinking
- Analytical thinking
- Clear communication, both written and oral
- Knowledge of the discipline
- Application of the knowledge
- Use of best practices, ethics and values of the profession

Flexibility in course selection allows students to pursue options that are aligned with their learning and career goals.

Program Format

The program can be completed through a mix of traditional daytime, evening, weekend and online courses.

- Students typically begin courses in August at the beginning of the fall semester and can finish their program as early as the following fall
- Admission to the program is open all year and applications are assessed for acceptance as they arrive

The program maintains an enrollment of 30 students, ensuring small class sizes, personalized program advising based on a student's career goals, and the opportunity for close working relationships with graduate faculty.

What can I do with a degree in media studies?

Recent graduates from the program have applied their degree professionally in:

- Journalism
- Advertising
- Public relations
- Sports marketing and public policy

Graduates have also gone on to pursue law and doctoral degrees.

Admission Requirements

- Graduate School application and $40 fee
- Submission of all postsecondary academic transcripts
- Successful completion of a bachelor's degree prior to enrollment
- Undergraduate GPA of 3.0 (on a 4.0 scale)
- International Applicants: Proof of English Proficiency, minimum requirements are TOEFL (79), IELTS (6.5) or equivalent
- Three letters of recommendation
- Academic History Information
- Statement of purpose
- Accelerated Combined Degrees: Current SIUE undergraduate students may apply for the accelerated option to earn graduate-level credit for courses taken their senior year.

Program application materials may be uploaded during the application process, but official transcripts must be sent directly from the school attended, and test scores must be verifiable with the appropriate testing service. Please contact the Graduate Admissions office with questions regarding the application submission process at graduateadmissions@siue.edu.

Students with undergraduate majors in fields other than mass communications will be considered for admission, provided that their statement of purpose, as contained in the Department of Mass Communications Graduate Program Application, shows the relationship between the undergraduate major and the MS program in media studies. Students lacking sufficient undergraduate preparation (as determined by the Director of Graduate Studies), will be required to take up to three prerequisite courses (nine hours) that will not count toward the graduate degree. With permission from the Director of Graduate Studies, these courses may be taken concurrently with those toward the Master of Science degree.

Following admission, each student should make an appointment with the graduate program director for initial advisement.

Graduation Requirements

Students may choose one of three options as part of their exit requirement:

- Thesis
- Project
- Comprehensive exam

After the thesis, project or exam is submitted and evaluated by the student's advisory committee, the student must successfully complete an oral examination conducted by the committee. The oral examination will focus primarily on the defense of the thesis, project or exam and may also cover the student's program of study.
