no report of his condition was made. It was not clear whether the worker was overcome by carbon monoxide or fumes.

The same goes for playing different musical instruments. Each instrument has different acoustic conditions.

"The performance that keeps coming to mind is the first time when I experienced making music in the audience's shoes," Korak said. "In some cases, it was a solo performance, but also a small impact on the audience."

Edwardsville, he is capable of adapting to different acoustic conditions.

"The performance that keeps coming to mind is the first time when I experienced making music in the audience's shoes," Korak said. "In some cases, it was a solo performance, but also a small impact on the audience."