

GRASP @ SIUE

We understand that you've recently experienced an academic setback. Please know that this happens to countless college students every single semester – and we are here to aid in getting you on the right track!

GRASP (Grade Recovery & Academic Sustainability Program) is an initiative within the Office of Academic Advising and supported by the Office of Retention & Student Success that has been designed to provide extra support to undergraduate students in need of academic recovery. It is our goal that by participating in GRASP, you will not only return to good academic standing but also thrive academically in semesters to come!

We request that you attend one of our GRASP Information Sessions to learn more about the program and the resources available to help you succeed! During a GRASP Information Session, you will have the opportunity to have your academic questions and/or concerns addressed. In addition, we will connect you with your GRASP Mentor – a graduate student who will serve as a support unit as you progress through the upcoming semester! Again, attending a GRASP Information Session is the first step an individual can take in the academic recovery process!
