Only to have staff say they won't put anymore machines in because it is too expensive. 3	I'm not sure with one in particular. I was going outside of the SSC late at night and a middle eastern student was walking through the crosswalk. A huge truck came barreling through the pay lot and swerved like they were going to hit the students. I do not know if they were actually trying to hit them or if it was a more general display of aggression. The person then turn the truck around and honked their horn. The horn was a novelty horn that played Dixie. Later the incident was reported to a police officer who had driven through the lot. The complaint was not taken seriously (of course).	5/6/2019 3:00 PM

6	In 2016, I was assaulted by an ex boyfriend in a dorm room. He was abusive to me for 1 year, and I defended myself by hitting him. Campus police were called and I was arrested for the assault, even though I was defending myself. Campus police were not able to identify the victim in the situation. I was also almost banned from campus from the commitee that reviewed my case, but Dr. Waple stood up for me and allowed me to stay. I am now graduating in May. The commitee did not allow me to tell them the history of abuse, but instead only based their decision on that specific day. I was assaulted on campus, arrested when I should have been let go to recover from the past year of abuse, and discrimnated against by the commitee.	4/29/2019 11:17 AM

10	When given the chance, the campus should let Bob McClellan go. A Trump supporter not be teaching business ethics at an accredited school. Unfortunately, Trump voters would have a cow because they think White supremacy and rape are cool, while kneeling at a football game and gender-neutral bathrooms are a sign of the apocalypse. I did not report the incident, because Bob as a person doesn't make me fear for my life--he's a friendly lunatic--but his ideas make me fear for the future. He should not be given a platform here.	4/22/2019 8:42 PM

27	They're always on campus at random times during the year so I figured that SIUE allows them on campus.	4/2/2019 6:41 PM
28	I don't trust this school, majority of the teacher or the cops here either. I have never felt that this school cared and so why should I care.	4/1/2019 11:30 PM
29	Because I support freedom of speech.	4/1/2019 7:24 PM
30	It occurred during a demonstration in the quad and I assumed the school was aware of what happened.	4/1/2019 5:09 PM
31	I intervened and the offender left the situation. Victim asked me not to report.	4/1/2019 3:56 PM
32	A physics professor made fun of people who believed in God. He can believe what he wants, but it was technically discrimination. I'm just calling it like I see it.	4/1/2019 3:42 PM
33	The school doesn't have very good support groups when someone has experienced a tragedy	4/1/2019 3:24 PM
34	It was just 2 fortune cookies, not really anything. Also, he was in and out before I could say anything.	4/1/2019 2:16 PM

3	Need staff, faculty, and leaders to have background of working with others of different cultures, diversity, and not just from the local community.	5/7/2019 12:43 AM
4	I have only taken classes online and have never actually visited campus. Thus, I cannot speak to on-campus climate, and am not entirely familiar with SIUE's culture of safety/inclusion, etc. However, I will say that from what I see in emails and through their curriculum, diversity and inclusivity seem very important to SIUE. I really, really liked the mandatory sexual assault prevention training at the beginning of the academic year. I also like the emails sent to students in support of religious groups after major events (such as shootings at places of worship). I will also say that I have always felt respected in discussion board posts on BlackBoard. I am not sure if SIUE has gender-neutral bathrooms, lactation rooms for mothers, and groups/clubs for minority groups, but those are all options for people to feel heard/respected/included. All of the online forms appear to have lots of options for people who identify as non-gender binary and that is wonderful. My only suggestion: keep doing what you're doing for online students.	5/6/2019 3:56 PM
5	its pretty rad my binary dude	5/6/2019 3:41 PM
6	None	5/6/2019 2:33 PM
7	Whenever I went to competitions in high school, I would go to universities such as U of I and other smaller universities. The diversity on that campus is what I was hoping for SIUE to have. There are not as many Asian-Americans on this campus as I had hoped. I have seen more over the years, but it definitely does not compare to U of I yet. I appreciate all of the activities done on campus to promote diversity and inclusion, but I don't really see as many inclusive Asian activities. I would appreciate if there were some that were available on occasion. There really is not a negative stigma to Asian culture as much (except for stereotypes), so it is not as important as making other cultures feel safe and included, but I would just appreciate a small activity every now and then just to know that we are also included on campus.	5/6/2019 11:54 AM

14	For real, rock dude (Tom Rayborn) spews hate on a weekly basis. He yells at students, telling them they are going to hell. The big thing is the megaphone. I'd be okay with it if he'd just have a sign and just talk to people, but he can tell over you with that damn speaker and there's nothing you can do about it. You can't voice your opinion because he'll belittle you. He also posts videos of students online without permission (I was even able to find them). Lastly, I'm sure you know, I believe it was Mile Stockwell in the group judged another student based on their sexual identity. Luckily, other students backed them up, but it's strange how the university still allows them to do what they do (especially with the megaphone).	4/24/2019 11:33 PM
15	calm down. i feel like everything is pretty solid. other than minor "incidents" that happen because people are assholes in general, this campus is doing great on including other races/ethnicities. stop promoting white hatred?? if anything, races segregate away from white people.	4/24/2019 5:48 PM
16	Stop hiring people based PRIMARILY on their race just to say you're diverse. There are a few people I have worked with that are NOT AT ALL qualified for jobs but they are given second and third chances because of their race. Diversity is wonderful, but let's cut the tokenism. Hire people who seem QUALIFIED, not because they're Asian, African American, Middle Eastern, etc. Some people are not qualified to work specific positions and they are rehired just to say they have a diverse staff.	4/23/2019 6:44 AM
17	Make a shorter quiz	4/22/2019 11:10 PM
18	I keep to myself and have not been raped and have been hardly harassed. But I had a health professor who told me that sexual assaults that occur at off-campus housing, like Enclave, do not have to be reported. If true, that's disturbing. Equally disturbing, this health professor left the university shortly after she told us, although that may have been a coincidence. In addition, I've followed how the university has treated sexual assault victims in the Alestle, and I think it could be improved. The victim and the suspect could at least be separated before the investigation is complete. Although it is rare, I realize false accusations can exist, but having to attend class with a potential rapist isn't right either. Having a better, more transparent process would reinforce the message that the "Not Anymore" training preaches.	4/22/2019 9:08 PM

25	I don't enjoy the bible pushers and god lecturers that come to campus. Until there is a group pushing any other philosophical interest group like niechze's die-hard aethism or even some wica stuff, I don't really want to have to desperately walk by a bunch of missionary members of a religion that already greatly pisses me off and has a such a violent history. It makes me very uncomfortable and, while free speech is a thing, I think we need to keep that stuff away from my learning environment. Especially when it's right in the middle of campus. I'm more okay with the pro-lifers having a both at a campus interest event, since that is made for people to push their ideas and beliefs. The vegan people aren't as distracting either..	4/15/2019 9:43 PM

Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Campus Climate Survey for Students

31	My first year, I had a TA that was so bad, that I failed the class and had less than a 2.0 GPA. I was not the only one. So instead of sending resources to help me, the school threatened me with expulsion. I retook the class with a different teacher and got a 100. Ever since then I have known that the teachers here are shit, do not care, and are here for a paycheck. I asked about a test date to a teacher and they scoffed at me even though they changed the date. I just wanted to know the test date that THEY CHANGED! They also complained about the gender pay gap, which was totally out of place for the lesson, which has been proven false time and time again. You all hire these super far left thinking people with no second thought. I can't stand politics in my medical classes. I was in medical ethics and the professor started lecturing about the president. Who gives a shit, we are talking about some guy who got is whole body blown up and wanted to have assisted suicide. How does that turn to politics!? Leave it out of the classroom as it is so inappropriate to talk about. I don't lean left or right, but when you are all trying so hard to be 'inclusive' or 'diverse' it makes me want to puke. Stop trying so hard on those things and instead, how about you fix some of the walk ways that flood every time it rains??? How about making parking cheaper? If you all like diversity and inclusion so much, why do you still have a chic-fil-a here when they are donating to anit-LGBT groups? Isn't that ironic... All my classes suck, I have been bullied and looked down on, I should of joined the marines like I wanted but I am stuck in this hell hole instead. One teacher, Ashley Jabs, made me think that maybe this won't be so bad. Then anatomy and phys 1-2 ended, and so did my hope for my future. This box is made small on purpose to discourage longer comments as well isn't it? Because of this school, I am no longer willing to even leave the house. I hate going places as all I hear is 'HoW iS sKoOl GoInG?' and I am reminded about all the horrible days I have spent here. I have to take anti-anxiety medicine as well because I am so stressed about making a grade or I will be kicked out of the school. I can't join the marines because I am on medicine, I can't stop the medicine because I am in school, I can't stop school because I am stressed and have to take medicine. This school has completely ruined me. College is a scam, I wish I had never gone, and my academic advisor is the one good person I have met here. They do not get paid enough and should be making a billion dollars a year.	4/9/2019 11:48 AM
32	I think there is so much in this survey that a normal student wouldn't know. So i guess if some stuff was more talked about maybe? But it probably does not matter really.	4/8/2019 10:42 PM
33	Too much focus on diversity can turn into tokenism, which may be worse than a lack of diversity	4/8/2019 4:38 PM
34	I feel there is too much focus on african culture, i.e. Black student union, black only events. It creates an uneasy feeling for other races for the black culture to have such a strong focus.	4/8/2019 2:44 PM
35	It's good. Inclusion just needs time to improve. I thinks it's a larger problem with the culture in the US and not something he school can necessarily change directly. Keep drawing attention to it though.	4/8/2019 12:55 PM
36	I really appreciate how much the school does for awareness. There is always room for improvement. As I am not on campus, I can't say how the environment is there, but I do think that the more the staff is aware of inclusivity, the better the students will learn.	4/8/2019 12:36 PM
37	Student employees should be taken off campus, as they are not good ambassadors of the school. They are not trained to be there, they kept going back and forth looking for answers there by wasting time. It is very frustrating.	4/8/2019 11:50 AM
38	Stop promoting left wing ideology. Show the good and bad in all points of view, not just that conservative,Christian, white, males are bad.	4/8/2019 11:37 AM
39	It's very obvious that the admin pushes diversity, this isn't bad, however this is like the only thing ever being discussed between students and admin (along with sexual abuse). The admin should do a thorough survey on tuition/economic ability of students. I struggle to pay for college because I can't get financial need loans, despite actually needing financial assistance. I can't get them because I live with my parents, but they don't contribute to my education beyond boarding/living expenses. Why can't I get subsidized loans for the full cost of tuition, regardless of economic background? (Hint: I'm saying being slightly above the poverty line puts me at a greater disadvantage than poorer students)	4/8/2019 11:35 AM

51	No improvements.	4/1/2019 12:34 PM
52	It seems that it isn't much about race in this particular school. It's more about where you came from, small town or large city. If you came from a suburb or small town you tend to hang with people from the same place, if your from the city you tend to hang with people from the city. But if your rich and white that tends to be its own category. I'm not quite sure how to fix that other than having organizations that connect them all in some way.	3/28/2019 2:16 PM
53	Improve diversity for families. Take more action/faster action during times of hate crimes.	3/28/2019 10:45 AM
54	I don't care about anything the school is doing for diversity until they catch the people who have perpetuated homophobic and racist hate crimes in the past two years (or at least until they keep the student body updated on the status of those cases). It's all lip service until they start actually punishing racists. This is a nice survey, but let's be honest. Nothing is going to change. This school is going to busy itself with committees and activities and things that make the administration feel good about how much "work" they're "doing," and racists are going to continue to happily roam this campus. P.S.: Your staff are great. I don't blame any professors for this.	3/27/2019 7:25 PM

56	stop talking about diversity all the time.	3/26/2019 1:53 PM
57	Stop. The only people who should be in college are those with real (STEM, engineering, medical, etc.) majors. I don't care who we are talking about, but if they aren't cut out for college, don't bring them in for the purpose of "diversity".	3/25/2019 6:01 PM
58	I think educational faculty could be given conversations about making courses accessible for students even if they're not sure what their outside workload is like. there is an assumption that all students have the same amount of time, which is not the case, and it can be very emotionally taxing for older and busier students.	3/25/2019 5:48 PM
59	People are pretty accepting, maybe some religious groups aren't as accepting and can be too pushy. But my main problem is with insane wokloads, stress, and faculty who really should be teaching at all in any way.	3/25/2019 5:29 PM

68	Calm down with the damn diversity. Jesus. We get it, SIUE supports all colors. -thumbs up-	3/25/2019 11:40 AM
69	We shouldn't have to mandate diversity training. An institution that is living out what it believes about diversity will attract a diverse and inclusive group of students, staff, and faculty. In addition, I think SIUE focuses on diversity as more African Americans present. But it neglects to instead think of diversity as people of all backgrounds, races, ethnicity, religions, sexes, and beliefs as a diverse group. In my experience at SIUE, as a Johnetta Haley Scholar, the only race issue this campus focuses on is the one between white and black. Even when requested that the campus takes a look at more race and diversity issues no action is taken. This campus and university is stuck in a "diversity trap". If two races constitutes diversity to you, then SIUE is doing very well. In addition, I think that SIUE does not do a very good job of including students and faculty who are more conservative in their beliefs. SIUE preaches tolerance but will not extent this to more conservative peoples. Even faculty make statements that some students find insulting and directed at their personal beliefs.	3/25/2019 11:40 AM
70	collecting a large number of people who all believe in similar or the same ideas does not lend well to any idea of "diversity"	3/25/2019 11:36 AM
71	Quit bending over backwards to make the campus "diverse". You still have white/christian/conservative students who feel left behind because all you tend to is the colored/muslim/liberal groups.	3/25/2019 11:23 AM
72	Too much emphasis on it makes it seem forced. Rather would see a merit based system.	3/25/2019 11:21 AM
73	Economic diversity needs to be a focus. Graduate assistants are paid so little that we all have full-time jobs, plus the half-time job of the assistantship, plus the full load of schoolwork. It's KILLING US.	3/21/2019 12:12 PM
74	Thank you for caring. Just knowing that there's people who are actively worrying about things like this makes me feel like maybe humanity isn't doomed for failure after all.	3/20/2019 8:48 PM

77	Don't press for it so much and it will happen all by itself there's no need to spend time and money trying to promote it	3/20/2019 1:41 PM
78	Instead of trying to make the faculty more diverse. Make sure they are actually good at teaching and doing their jobs. I have had many teachers that do not either know or care to teach their students.	3/20/2019 11:19 AM
79	I would feel safer on campus if faculty and students were allowed to carry concealed.	3/19/2019 7:51 PM
80	I can tell the school is trying but they focus primarily on the black and white. From what I can tell they dont put much of an effort on those other small minority populations. Being mexican with a hispanic surname but also being caucasion with a light skin tone I often feel alone. The white students feel I am mexican becuase I am not fully white while the mexican students say I am not a true mexican becuase I do not speak spanish or look mexican. It is difficult being multiraical and this is a group that SIUE does not target really at all.	3/19/2019 10:38 AM
81	The school focuses too much on diversity.	3/19/2019 10:32 AM
82	Not sure	3/18/2019 10:44 PM
83	Stop focusing on diverversity and just pick the people that fit the job discription rather than selecting based off skin color and beliefs (desk manager job).	3/18/2019 6:30 PM
84	It is shoved down our throat to be honest. I wouldn't push it so much. I get that we need to be accepting of others but it almost bashes the white race due to uplifting & treating other races with an almost higher priority.	3/18/2019 2:57 PM
85	We seem to focus way too much on all races and being as inclusive as possible, to the point where it alienates those that you purposefully ignore. It's always about including those who are minirities, and making sure they are always heard, and if you disagree with that statement then you are seen as bigoted rather than having a difference of opinion	3/18/2019 2:17 PM

88	The school of nursing does not work with students with pregnant students. I also saw them kick a student out of her classes for emergency surgery on her ovary which did not hinder her education but they made her drop out of her course. They don't care about their students, they can be replaced.	3/18/2019 12:35 PM
89	Non-caucasian groups solely for one race....is racism. Reverse racism in financial aid is rampant. As a single white male working on an advanced degree with no kids In the field of ecology, I am offered no financial assistance whatsoever. I am also required to come up with a ridiculous amount of fees for facilities I do not use and sporting events I do not attend. I am also vastly underpaid as a student employee of this institution. Finally, not being able to carry a gun on campus leaves me unable to defend myself and the violent robberies that happen here occasionally do not make me feel any safer.	3/18/2019 11:59 AM
90	If some professors were more personable and welcoming to students in general as people not just as students, this would improve climate for all students and make the learning environment more inviting, both in class and in office hours. Professors communicating clear expectations also goes a long way to a safer feeling class environment where students know what is expected of them and would feel more free to ask questions rather than feeling like the professor has some secret expectations they aren't willing to share or don't directly talk about. (Some professors do this well and some barely do it at all.)	3/18/2019 11:36 AM

4	As gender identity ordinances and bathroom battles sweep the nation, ordinary Americans have had to confront the question of whether their long-standing beliefs about the sexes are based on biology or bigotry. While the debate has polarized many, it has also served to unite exceptionally unlikely allies. In something of an historical first, self-professed radical feminists and conservative women are tabling their ideological differences and standing in solidarity against gender identity legislation, which they have come to recognize as threatening the civil rights of women. The Hands Across the Aisle Coalition is a bi-partisan group of women who have committed to working together and leveraging their collective resources and platforms to oppose aspects of the transgender movement. The following is the transcript of my introduction at an event I hosted at the Heritage in which five of the coalition's leaders offer a perspective the mainstream media too often ignores on this very important issue. I also encourage you watch the entirety of the event posted in the video below. "Thank you, John, and thank you everyone for joining us today for what promises to be an informative and enlightening conversation from voices the mainstream media has ignored. event. For the past several years, all across America, parents, teachers and local school districts have been having conversations about how best to accommodate the dignity, privacy and safety concerns of students who identify as transgender while also addressing the dignity, privacy and safety concerns of other students. Solutions were found, such as the creation of single-occupancy restrooms and changing facilities for students who identify as transgender while retaining girls' and boys' rooms for biological girls and boys. But activists attacked these commonsense compromise policies as "transphobic." Then, last May, the Obama administration said that a 1972 law settles all of these issues: Students are to be treated the same based on their "gender identity," regardless of their biological sex. On May 13, 2016, the Obama Administration Departments of Justice and Education sent a "Dear Colleague" letter to our nation's schools informing them that going forward "both federal agencies [would] treat a student's gender identity as the student's sex for purposes of enforcing Title IX." The result of this decree was that schools would have to allow students access to bathrooms, locker rooms, dorm rooms, and hotel rooms for overnight field trips based on the self-declared gender identity of the student. But then on August 21, federal judge Reed O'Connor blocked the decree from going into effect in all 50 states. The judge ruled that the attempt by the Obama administration to redefine sex was unlawful, writing that "it cannot be disputed that the plain meaning of the term sex as used ... following passage of Title IX meant the biological and anatomical differences between male and female students." The Obama Department of Justice appealed this ruling in October. But just last Friday, the Trump Department of Justice withdrew that appeal and cancelled oral arguments that were to be heard this week. Judge O'Connor got it right. The Obama administration was unlawfully rewriting federal law. The term "sex" is not ambiguous, and is not subject to executive branch agencies redefinitions to now mean "gender identity." But in addition to being unlawful, the Obama administration's "Dear Colleague" letter is bad policy. That's the focus of today's panel. Today we will hear from five women, from a variety of backgrounds and experiences, explaining why the Obama-era rules turn the purpose of Title IX on its head. How the rules turn a law meant to protect women and girls into a law that allows men who claim to be women the right to enter women-only spaces. How the Obama-era rules favor the concerns of students who identify as transgender while entirely ignoring the concerns of other students. Legitimate safety, privacy, and equality concerns exist, and the Obama administration ignored them. Today, we'll hear about those concerns. Let me briefly introduce our panelists. Miriam Ben-Shalom is an educator and activist who made history for being the first person to be reinstated to the military after being discharged from service for being openly lesbian. Kaeley Triller Haver is a rape survivor whose personal experience inspired her political activism on women's privacy and safety. She serves as the Communications Director for the Just Want Privacy Campaign in Washington State. Kami Mueller is the CEO of the Mueller Group, a communications firm. She played an integral role in the communications efforts defending the state's controversial privacy law (HB2). Mary Lou Singleton is a midwife and a feminist who is an active member of the Women's Liberation Front (WOLF), the radical feminist organization that filed a lawsuit against the Obama Administration to restore Title IX rights to women and girls. Emily Zinos is a stay at home mom who works with the Minnesota chapter of the "Ask Me First" campaign, a project sponsored by the Family Policy Alliance to defend the safety and privacy of women and children. Unfortunately due to a family medical emergency Emily is unable to be with us in person today. Mariam will read the remarks that Emily had prepared for today's event. Following the panelists' opening remarks, I'll open the forum to questions and answers. Let me conclude by saying that up until last year's prime-time interview of Bruce Jenner (as he was then called), many Americans had never had a conversation about transgender issues. It's a conversation we need to have. But the Obama administration tried to shut down these discussions before they had even taken place. The Obama administration attempted to force a one-size-fits-all policy on the entire nation rather than allow parents and teachers and local schools the time, space, and flexibility to find nuanced solutions that respect everyone. For many Americans, gender identity concerns are a new reality. Rather than follow the Obama administration's rush to impose a top-down solution on the entire country, we should encourage the American people to have these conversations, consider all of the relevant concerns, and make policies that will best serve all Americans. Today's event is at the service of fostering such conversations. Please join me in welcoming our panel."

6	Honestly, this survey took a little longer than I had hoped when filling out. If the survey was split into different categories and allowed students to go back to the other categories, it would have been appreciated. 9	Why should it matter if I am white? Why do you care if I am male? If I'm a smart, hardworking student then nothing else should matter. Also, microaggressions are a way to say what kind of speech is hurtful, and limits free speech.	4/30/2019 12:41 PM
10	As a non traditional student who has not ever visited the campus due to solely taking online classes, this survey had very little that pertained to me, if any.	4/30/2019 12:21 AM
11	As a strictly on-line student most of these questions did not apply to me and were marked NA.	4/29/2019 4:39 PM
12	Discard this survey, you talk about accepting diversity but this survey is divisive. If you'd like more meaning data from the bulk of the students then make it worth our while to compete as time is money.	4/29/2019 1:31 PM
13	a lot of this survey does not apply to a graduate student who has never stepped foot on campus since my program was completely online.	4/29/2019 1:18 PM
14	1. A survey question choice was AA instead of AA/Black; something Blacks feel strongly about and most prefer Black 2. Definitions should precede question; the survey is so long who wants to verify their answer after seeing the definition 3. Use more tables: Choices on top X axis Group or Items on Y axis 4. Not sure the survey captured the day to day, routine quality of student life as it is focused on extremes	4/29/2019 1:06 PM
15	Felt repetitive. Why not make a more basic survey so you get more responses? Online students were not addressed much.. is this intentional?	4/29/2019 1:02 PM
16	I can't remember which question it was, but be cautious of lumping together feelings about campus climate among LGB and non-binary/trans students. While we tend to be put under the same umbrella, our experiences of campus culture are very different. Feeling accepted as LGB does not mean the climate is accepting or accommodating at all to queer identities.	4/29/2019 12:22 PM
17	I was not happy with learning about the gerontology program being discontinued. If a professor is getting ready to retire, then another professor should be readily available to teach this course online. I should not have to go and register with SIU or other campuses. Course should also be available all year round rather than waiting for another semester when the course is available. This delay eligibility for graduation.	4/29/2019 11:53 AM

22	My thoughts were not allowed to be captured by this survey. This is because the survey had an agenda, and was partial. It felt as though it wasn't created to capture how people really felt, but to see how much more diversity training should be pushed. Please expand your consideration on the matter.	4/25/2019 2:21 PM
23	Include some sections where you can add feedback and personal opinions. Some of the questions I could not fully answer because of mixed feelings, and I believe a "disagree, agree, somewhat, etc" does not really help when looking for specific information.	4/23/2019 6:44 AM

We wish that we could sit on the quad and hold hands without getting so many weird stares.	4/12/2019 7:23 PM
34	This should be broken up into multiple surveys to make it easier to complete. Multiple short surveys are more convenient than one very long survey.	4/10/2019 12:31 PM

38	There were multiple errors in online education, whether it was computer system errors, email errors, or the blackboard system. This was a great cause of stress. There should also be more classes offered at different times of the year. I had to prolong my course schedule and or try to find the course at different colleges because of this.	4/8/2019 12:36 PM
39	It is clear that the number of person hours spent on this current event is too many. Students have many other important problems that are not being taken as seriously.	4/8/2019 12:01 PM
40	Complicated viewpoints are difficult to express over a multiple choice survey. For example gun control questions.	4/8/2019 11:36 AM
41	Chill on diversity, I get it. We all get it. I've never experienced anything negative concerning anyones race on campus. (I'm white though)	4/8/2019 11:35 AM
42	I felt as though the survey was extremely repetitive in regards to diversity questioning. I feel like I answered the same questions repeatedly.	4/8/2019 11:21 AM
43	As far as some of the questions, I feel as if they don't go more into depth or don't reach specific areas that they should. For instance, I've experienced the aftermath of someone who had gone through sexual assault, and that really affected me a great deal as I was trying to help, but the survey didn't ever ask that, only if I had witnessed or experienced the situation firsthand. There's more than witnessing it firsthand or experiencing it that could have somebody in a great deal of pain after traumatic experiences, and I think that maybe this is an additional portion for all experiences that should maybe be touched about adding stress or affecting physical or mental health.	4/8/2019 1:41 AM
44	Being an online student only, most questions did not pertain to me. If all students are to do surveys there should be one specific to on line only.	4/2/2019 12:34 PM
45	I doubt you all will do anything from this information but if you do decide to do anything I recommend dealing with the stem teachers. I personally am displeased with Dr. Faith Liebl as a person she is fine if you don't disagree with her but as a teacher she is horrendous.	4/1/2019 11:39 PM
46	A lot of these questions do not to apply to me as a Caucasian agnostic living off campus.	4/1/2019 5:23 PM
47	I live off campus and am a non traditional student. This school is a means to an end. I don't care about the stuff you're asking about.	4/1/2019 2:22 PM

Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Campus Climate Survey for Students

49	Focus on improving and updating the university experience to match the demands of employers in the 21st century. The way we choose to educate students has not changes in centuries. The traditional objective of college is to provide students with a broad range in knowledge in many different areas of study. However, this dated idea in a time where the 'expert' thrives is completely unaligned with the goals of students and society. More than ever we are connected to abundant sources of information that was thought to be impossible when the traditional college experience was conceived. This means students are lifelong learners. So why should we still focus on teaching students so many major irrelevant classes, when those who truly like to learn, will. Modern universities are somewhere stuck between the lost dream of creating well rounded informed citizens, and trying to have the best job placement compared to other schools. Please, just pick one and make that your cause.	4/1/2019 12:49 PM
50	No comment.	4/1/2019 12:34 PM
51	Some of the questions felt repetitive, so I choose my answers based on the wording which may conflict with my other answers.	4/1/2019 11:33 AM
52	This survey does not allow for students to actually get across the issues that we are facing. i.e. how poorly sexual assault is handled, how families are left out, the financial burden that weighs heavier on members in family housing, how poorly our leaders respond to crimes against people of color. How uncomfortable females feel because of the comments that men give. This campus is not immune to the issues that are plaguing the nation which is sad because school is shaping the leaders of tomorrow, yet the administrators do not do their part in creating positive change.	3/28/2019 10:45 AM

56	Instead of being so caught up in diversity, try to find ways to improve the quality of academic advisers and teaching methods.	3/26/2019 12:53 AM
57	I think this survey shows how the school focuses too much on making people feel good. A university is a place to learn and a place where everyone is free to learn and study what they want. I think this is a good university, but I think that focusing on diversity is a waste of resources since this university does not have any problems with diversity. I think those resources should go towards the development of new programs and opportunities for students.	3/26/2019 12:10 AM
58	Learn to write a survey that doesn't contain leftist-biased questions.	3/25/2019 6:01 PM
59	too focused on diversity. this was mostly a waste of time, lol	3/25/2019 5:29 PM
60	This survey is missing topics about work/life balance, professor quality, stress, and other topics relative to those. It also repeats many questions unnecessarily.	3/25/2019 5:29 PM
61	Counseling services should be able to handle a more intensive and broad spectrum of student clients. They should not send their student clients that are asking for help to outside counselors. Outside counselors cost money and are not as accessible. I think that it is frustrating and a disservice to students who are seeking counseling service to have to be sent to other institutions because university counseling services are not equipped to handle students needs. There should be more emphasis on providing more licensed professionals to help students.	3/25/2019 3:33 PM
62	In regards to campus safety, I think it would make me feel safer if SIUE offered a SIUE police officer to escort my friends and I to our car when we leave late at night. We park in the VC and the walk from the student success center at 2am can be pretty dark and scary - especially being women	3/25/2019 3:22 PM
63	This school need to learn and understand the definition of exclusion and racism because they do both !	3/25/2019 3:20 PM
64	Unclear what you were meaning when you were asking if faculty, parents, administrators, etc. were causing me stress.	3/25/2019 2:51 PM

68	Maybe boxes to explain our answers.	3/25/2019 12:14 PM
69	Pay more attention to who you're sending emails/calls to when they're meant for traditional students. I've been there two years, I've always been non traditional. One more call about "can I speak to the parents of..." (no, ya friggin can't.) and I'm going to lose my crap. Emails too. Pay the fuck attention.	3/25/2019 11:40 AM
70	There is more to a campus than just the amount of diversity in the campus. Some of these questions could be left out. In addition, I am a US Citizen but I was not born in the US but on a US Air Force Base overseas, this question's response options should be changed so that students can more specifically answer the question (i.e. "U.S. Citizen" could be the response instead of "Born in U.S."). Many of these questions and answers felt very leading and loaded, a questionnaire/survey should try to avoid these types of questions if the creators want honest and useful answers from respondents.	3/25/2019 11:40 AM

72	When I read the title of this survey, "Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Campus Climate Survey for Students", I thought it was going to be about climate change.	3/25/2019 11:33 AM
73	Instead of worrying so much about "proper pronouns like she/her/hers" from an administrator (on her signature block) for the program, maybe worry about the student. Instead of worrying about diversity worry about a student's background and education. Instead of accepting peoples religious and political feelings, how about accepting other courses from other schools so a student doesn't have to start over again. Instead of worrying about sexual harassment how about we worry about classes that require a 92% minimum for an "A". If it wasn't for the program being paid for by my 10 plus years in the service (of which I have to go to this school) I wouldn't attend this clown show. No one has reached out to me to see if I'm doing well. Everything is sent via email or blackboard. Even though the staff has zero interest in my success, they had no problem putting me on probation to get accepted to the MBA program, not because my bachelors GPA or standards (3.68), but because the school I attended due to multiple deployments was not up to "SIUE Standards for a GMAT waiver".	3/24/2019 10:01 PM
74	being a cis gendered female when asked about gender Identity I was unsure if the questions were applicable because I identify with the gender I was assigned at birth.	3/21/2019 8:22 PM
75	The section that asked why I didn't report anything didn't have a wide enough range of options. There was no option for I didn't want to report something for x reason.	3/21/2019 7:56 PM
76	It needed more on issues of economic diversity. Students cannot focus fully on school when they are simultaneously working full-time jobs and have so many other pulls on them. The amount of work outside the classroom is significantly higher than it should be, and professors do not seem to appreciate that students cannot drop outside work for class because rent exists. Provide more financial assistance to students (particularly at the graduate level, where Pell, MAP and SIUE grants don't exist) so that they can focus more of their energies on school.	3/21/2019 12:12 PM
77	Be more vigilant in prevent solicitors. There are "monks" that come each year under the guise of helping an orphanage and request donations from passerbys. There are religious people that walk around with bags of "free books" that try to coerce you into donating to have the books. The number of anti-science fliers left on tables in the science buildings but not other buildings is obscene. The strange advertisement of the military should also be lessened.	3/20/2019 12:28 PM
78	On the question of feeling safe of campus I would like an other box because in the world we live in the only way I can truly feel safe is to be able to exercise my 2nd amendment right and conceal carry a gun. If there is a problem on campus, I dont have confidence in the siue police to get there in time and help. Shootings and bad things really only happen in gun free zones (like this campus) which makes me want to have the option to defend myself in a situation like that. I wish I would be able to do this on this campus but it is not allowed. When my safety is concerned, I only trust myself to defend it. Also, this campus is super against white Christian conservative men. That is who the biases are against on this campus. This is the most liberal campus in the area and the professors and administrators let you know it. I can't express conservative views without getting hounded on and shut down and told that can not be on this campus.	3/20/2019 10:27 AM
79	Survey I feel like is kind of pointless, there's no reason to force diversity. Let it happen naturally and don't make it such a big deal. We are all people don't need to be so extra about it. Online modules about sexually harassment and diversity are a joke that no one cares about, it's a waste of time and resources.	3/19/2019 2:05 PM

80	The school focuses too much on diversity. It affects the quality of my education because sometimes I can't understand foreign professors. I feel there is a bias against those with right wing political views and those with Judeo-Christian values.	3/19/2019 10:32 AM
81	I wish the faculty will be open minded. Accepting other ethnicity and gender. Not judgmental. And easy to approach. Most of them are nice but some are not.	3/19/2019 10:31 AM
82	Why ask about discrimination between specific groups? It cause discrimination when certain groups are left out.	3/18/2019 6:30 PM
83	Some of the questions are easily answerable to make our campus climate look bad	3/18/2019 4:35 PM
84	It's alright to feel uncomfortable about questions, it leads to answering the hard questions we can't afford to not address.	3/18/2019 2:33 PM
85	This survey is biased towards minority groups without questions pertaining to being Caucasian.	3/18/2019 11:59 AM
86	Your choices aren't always clear. There were many issues about which I had no information but there was no way to tell you that other than neutral.	3/18/2019 11:46 AM
87	Several of the questions feel redundant and repetitive.	3/18/2019 11:44 AM
