Intramural Foot...More than your average club

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. – The intramural flag football team has gone above and beyond normal expectations this semester and might get to participate in a national championship game. This year there is one team that is defeating their competition without remorse.

To get to the national championship this team must win their next game at Southern Illinois University Carbondale and they get the opportunity to go to Florida for the big tournament. “This opportunity hasn’t come easy” says Graduate Assistant Brian Richardson, “they have been building that team for a few years before I came along and now we have some good talent on the team.”

Three years ago the team came together and won a few games and recruited a few ex-football players to make the team more competitive. They started preparing for the intramural season well in advance so that they can win against their intramural rivals NAME. “The trip to Florida is just a bonus back for me” says Kevin Riddick “I just really wanted to beat that other team since we lost by one point last year in the intramural championship.”
