A “PIECE” OF ST. LOUIS IS COMING TO EDWARDSVILLE

EDWARDSVILLE – Jan. 31, 2010 – St. Louis Pizza and Wings, formally only located in the St. Louis area, has announced it's expansion by opening a store next Monday, February 01, 2010, on Route 159 in the heart of Edwardsville/Collinsville.

“We are really excited about opening a store in Edwardsville,” said the owner of the franchise, Steve Rasnic. “We really think our ‘Buy one/Get one Free’ will be a big hit with college students.”

Prior to the addition of St. Louis Pizza and Wings, Imos was the only St. Louis style pizza available in the Edwardsville/Collinsville area. Not only does St. Louis Pizza and Wings give more options when it comes to thin crust pizza, they also serve their brand new thick crust pizza, giving customers more options and reasons to order.

St. Louis Pizza and Wings is having their grand opening tomorrow February 1, 2010. They plan to offer half price food for everyone who comes to the store. Their menu consists of more than pizza and wings. They also serve salads, pastas, burgers, and all sorts of sides and desserts, including the famous Ted Draws frozen custard.

About St. Louis Pizza and Wings

St. Louis Pizza and Wings was founded in July of 2000. Since then the franchise has expanded at a steady pace with seven stores. The franchise is a fast growing company with plans to put up five more stores this year. St. Louis Pizza and Wings offers every kind of pizza you can think of along with wings with eight different sauces and even breaded dummies. They also offer six different pastas, eleven different sandwiches, fourteen different appetizers, three different kinds of burgers, six different salads, and four different desserts. Their deals include the famous buy one get one free pizza, and the family special which their competitors just can't match.
